HARPER'S MARCH PUBLICATIONS

The Vicissitudes of Evangeline

By ELINOR GLYN

Author of "The Visits of Elizabeth"

A LIVELY, sparkling story by the author of "The Visits of Elizabeth," as gleaned from Evangeline's journal. The book is amusing from end to end, and the capricious heroine is full of the guileful innocence and innocent guile with which Mrs. Glyn knows well how to endow her characters.

Post 8vo, Cloth, $1.50

The Probationer

By HERMAN WHITAKER

THE scenes of this collection of short stories are laid among the snow-covered blizzard-swept regions of the great Canadian Northwest. They are rugged, virile tales, like the wild country in which they are placed, and all have a picturesque touch.

Post 8vo, Cloth, $1.25

Mother and Daughter

By GABRIELLE E. JACKSON

MRS. JACKSON deals with the relation of mother to daughter from babyhood up. Such subjects as table-manners, pin-money, the "story-hour," custom; children's questions are taken up in this practical sympathetic discussion. Mrs. Jackson is a mother herself and a well-known writer for girls.

History of the United States

By THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON

and

WILLIAM MacDONALD

Professor of History in Brown University

IN THIS new history the authors have written the complete story of our country from 986 A.D. to 1905. The later chapters deal with the reconstruction of the South, the populist agitation, tariff measures, the war in Cuba and national expansion.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish March 1 "Old Nursery Rhymes," the first book in their new series of colored books for little folk, in which the best known old nursery rhymes have been rewritten by Annie Batchelor and illustrated in four colors; "The Worth of Service," by Leigh Mitchell Hodges, author of "The Great Optimist," and "Easter Joys," a collection of Easter hymns from the writings of Longfellow and others, with numerous head and tail decorations by Louis Rhead.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish during March "The Vicissitudes of Evangeline," by Elinor Glyn, author of "The Visits of Elizabeth;" "The Probationer," by Herman Whittaker, short stories laid among the snow-covered, blizzard-swept regions of the great Canadian Northwest; "Mother and Daughter," by Gabrielle E. Jackson, dealing with sympathetic discussions on all the unfolding problems of a girl's life, and offering advice on table manners, pin-money and many questions that make for the happiness of children.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "De Profundis," by Oscar Wilde, written when he was prisoner at Reading Gaol, with portrait after etching by J. E. Kelly; "The Kaiser as He Is, the Real Wilhelm II.," translated by Walter Littlefield; "The Girl of La Gloria," a love story of Texas by Clara Driscoll; "A Self-Made Man's Wife: Her Letters to Her Son," by Eustace Merriman, being the women's view of certain famous correspondences; and "Belchamber," by Howard Overing Sturgis, a truthful and engaging novel of ultra-fashionable English society.

DODD, MEAD & CO. publish to-day "Pam," a novel by Bettina von Hutton; "The Bandalero," a novel by Paul Gwynne; and "Billy Duane," a novel by Frances Aymar Mathews, author of "My Lady Peggy Goes to Town," also new editions of "The Circle," by Catherine Cecil Thurston; and of George Barr McCutcheon's "Brewster's Millions;" "Castle Craneycrow" and "Graustark." They also issue at the same time "Life of Honoré de Balzac," by Mary F. Sandars; "A History of Ireland," by John F. Finerty; and a presentation edition of "My Commencement," a record in dainty and attractive form.

BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have secured another novel interesting and original, entitled "The Prize to the Hardy." The author is Alice Winter, who writes a story of the grain fields of Minnesota and the business schemes of which they are the feeders. A New England man has made his fortune and two young men from his native Maine come under his influence in settling to their life work. The successful New Englander has a daughter and she has an aspiring woman friend, and these characters all help to point some useful truths about American life. A vivid description of a forest fire makes real the scenes of these terrible conflagrations.

HENRY HOLT & CO. are to bring out a long list of promising books during the month of March. "Princess Passes," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, authors of "The Lightning Conductor," will tell another humorous story of love and travel; Pattee's "House of the Black Ring" brings a strange story of Pennsylvania Dutch folk; Deledda's "After the Divorce" is a dramatic Sardinian tale; and Colton's "Belted Seas" recounts the adventures of an American sea captain. Edward Everett Hale, Jr.'s "Dramatists of To-day" gives thoughtful estimates of Rostand, Hauptmann, Sudermann, Pinero, Shaw, Phillips and Maeterlinck; and Owen Seaman's "Harvest of Chaff" will contain some bright parodies.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ~~~~

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (quarto: under 30 cm.); O. (octavo: 25 cm.); 8v. (two: 20 cm.); S. (sixteenmo: 17½ cm.); T. (twelvemo: 15 cm.); Tt. (thirtytwomo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (forty-eightmo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Cahan, Abraham. The white terror and the red: a novel of revolutionary Russia. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1905. [F.] c. 6+ 430 p. D. cl., +$1.50.

Mr. Cahan's knowledge of the inside history of Russia is exceptional as this story proves. Alexander II. is one of the first persons introduced, and after scenes from his life, the terrible story of his assassination is depicted as if told by an eye witness. The characters embrace a variety of opposite types, representing the highest Russian official, the nihilist, the soldier, the political dreamer, the Jew and so on.

Candler, Edmund. The unveiling of Lhasa. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1905. 16+ 304 p. il. map, O. cl., $5.

An account of the expedition sent by England in 1903 under Colonel Younghusband to Tibet. The expedition spent the winter in Chumbi Valley which is not geographically a part of Tibet proper. This valley had never before been trodden by Europeans, hence its description possesses an unique interest. Mr. Candler was a part of the expedition accompanying it as correspondent of the London Telegraph. He tells in a graphic way the scenes they passed through and the strange people they fought and conquered, their final entrance into Lhasa, and their bitter disappointment at the sight of the "forbidden" city.

Colton, Olive A. Rambles abroad. Toledo, O., Franklin Printing & Engraving Co., [1904.] c. 5+288 p. il. pors. O. cl., $2.

This is not a consecutive story of travel, the details of going from place to place, with the incidents of travel being omitted. One is offered instead a series of sketches generously illustrated from photographs of many notable and interesting monuments, works of art and historical mementoes in the capitals of Europe. Thus we get a glimpse of Naples, of Rome, Milan, Vienna, Munich, Paris, London, etc., with sketches of "Noted exiles at rest in Rome," "The castle of the mad King of Bavaria," "The castles of François I.," etc.

The frauds perpetrated upon Life Insurance Companies, in order to realize on policies, that have long been known to exist form the subject of this novel. Several sudden deaths that do not at first seem suspicious are under the investigation of Dr. Nicholas Stone, a rich medical man, shown to have been murders. He is aided in his investigations by the Pacific Coast Manager of the Great International Life Insurance Co., who had paid the policies without a suspicion of fraud. There is some exciting detective work and a little romance.

Dickerson, Mary C. Moths and butterflies; with two hundred photographs from life, by the author. [New ed.] Bost., Ginn, [1905.] c. '01. 4-344 p. O. cl., $1.25.

"Moths and butterflies" forms an excellent starting point for work in natural history, for it deals with insects which are common to all parts of the country and at the same time admirably illustrative of the great principle of adaptation to environment. The various stages in the life of the caterpillar are described at length, and numerous illustrations of some forty common forms make the task of identification easy. A final chapter on the making of collections contains much useful information.

Doyle, Sir Arthur Conan. The return of Sherlock Holmes; il. by C. Raymond Macaulay. N. Y., McClure, Phillips & Co., 1905. [F.] c. 6+381 p. D. cl., +$1.50.

The sudden re-appearance of Sherlock Holmes in London in the spring of 1894 was as dramatic as his seeming taking off by Moriarty several years previous. He seeks out his old friend Watson and after telling him a convincing story of a miraculous escape takes a hand again in detective work. Thirteen stories in which he seeks the criminal or disentangles a puzzle follow, being as full of interest and excitement as anything of a similar nature from Mr. Doyle.

Driscoll, Clara. The girl of La Gloria; il. by Hugh W. Ditzler. N. Y., Putnam, 1905. c. 6+297 p. D. cl., +$1.50.

A love story of Texas with considerable local color in the way of feuds, episodes of jealousy and revenge.

The master-word is love which always means sacrifice. The scene is Tennessee among the phosphate mines. The wife of Philip Lawton condoned his sin in being father of a child by a mulatto woman and brought up the girl in her own family ignorant of her relationship but knowing she was of negro blood. The clever, beautiful girl hates her mother's race, but is totally submissive to her step-sister. The great problem of race mixture is discussed from its scientific, ethical and emotional view-points. Mrs. Lawton, to shield the girl and help her bear the burden of her father's sin, tells her sad story at the turning point of her life when she and her sister fall in love with the same man.

Hume, Fergus W. The mandarin's fan. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham Co., [1904.] c. 6-289 p. il. D. cl., †$1.25. A jade fan that once belonged to a Chinese Mandarin, and that in an apparently unexplainable manner is in the hands of people living in England, is the cause of a wonderful series of adventures. It is advertised for and an enormous sum offered for its return. A young man of birth and position, who needs money in order to marry and to wipe out the mortgage on his estates, determines to find the fan. He is baffled both by Chinese intrigue and the attempts of his own friends to discover the fan. The mystery surrounding the fan is exceedingly well preserved to the end.

John Van Buren, politician: a novel of to-day. N. Y., Harper, 1905. c. 04, '05. 4+289 p. D. cl., †$1.50. Follows the career of a young man from Schenectady, a college graduate and a bright lawyer, who comes to New York City and casts his lot in with the followers of Tammany. Scenes are depicted that have their setting in Tammany Hall, in the Democratic Club, in a Police Court in the Tombs, and afterwards when the hero has been elected to office in Albany. Richard Croker and other well-known figures are seemingly depicted in the characters. There is a love story with a happy ending.

In her despair she wanders about the streets and meets an old friend who leads her to the Temple of the Mother-Light supposed to be somewhere in New Jersey. Here many new thoughts are unfolded and there are long discussions upon the effects of love, superstition, voluntary and involuntary delusions. The young actress becomes the Mother-Light and fights a severe battle with selfish human love before she sacrifices herself for the good of the new faith. Many of the doctrines voiced are those of Christian Science.

"Minneola" is a poem after the style of "Hiawatha," developing an Indian legend native to Wilbraham, Mass., and vicinity. It is in the form of a story told by the last Indian woman of the village, giving the legendary tale of the settlement of the country by the forefathers of the local Indian tribe. "The parson's Rose," a shorter poem, is another Wilbraham story, elaborated into verse.

A story of Queen Elizabeth's Court, the queen being shown in most attractive guise. The heroine appears as the daughter of the toll-taker of Old London Bridge, a strikingly handsome man known as a pardoned convict. He endeavors to force his daughter into a repulsive marriage and she takes refuge with the queen who promises her protection. Her father follows her and is mortally wounded fighting his way into the palace. Dying he tells his story—that he has noble blood in him, though an illegitimate son. His father's estates and name are restored to his daughter, who becomes one of the queen's maids, and the heroine of a tender love story.

Smith, Percy Franklyn, and Gale, Arthur Sullivan. Elements of analytic geometry. Bost., Ginn, [1905.] c. '04. 12+424 p. il. O. buckram, $2.

The authors have prepared a drill book for beginners which presents the elements of the subjects in a manner conforming with modern ideas. The scope of the book is limited only by the assumption that a knowledge of algebra through quadratics must suffice for any investigation. This does not mean a treatise on conic sections. In fact the authors have intentionally avoided giving the book this form.

This, the first volume of the County Records of Virginia containing the Records of Spotsylvania Co., is published under the auspices of the Genealogical Association by Fox, Duffield & Co. The enterprise involves the first attempt to put into accessible form some of the most valuable of the early documents of the country. The importance of the undertaking is inestimable. Many of the original records, owing to the vicissitudes of time and war, have been destroyed, and it is imperative, if the remainder also are not to be lost to posterity, to print them before age has rendered them totally illegible. The transcriptions are being done by a resident genealogist of experience.

The founding of a free state in the very heart of savage and cannibalistic Africa, by the wisdom of a kingly philanthropist—Leopold II, King of the Belgians, is one of the achievements of the 19th century, almost unrecorded. Mr. Wack, a member of the New York bar, a student of mid-African affairs for the past seven years, has felt it his duty to tell to Americans the true story of the conception and development of the Congo Free State. The King of the Belgians gave him access to the archives of the administration of the Congo Free State in Brussels, and assisted by these he has told his wonderful story without prejudice, and with apparent truthfulness.

Lectures delivered by Prof. Weismann in the University of Freiburg in Breisgau. "As the author's preface indicates," says the translator, "the salient features of his crowning work are (1) the illumination of the evolution process with a wealth of fresh illustrations; (2) the vindication of the 'germ-plasm' concept as a valuable working hypothesis; (3) the final abandonment of any assumption of transmissible acquired characters; (4) a further analysis of the nature and origin of variations; and (5) an extension of the selection principle of Darwin and Wallace, which finds its logical outcome in the suggestive theory of germlinal selection."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 25, 1905.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE IMPORTANCE OF GUARDING CREDIT.

EVERY wholesaler has more or less reason to complain of the unbusinesslike manner in which retailers, especially those with small resources, attend to their settlements. A refusal to close an account when due, either by cash or note, unless some valid reason can be given, is sure to cause mistrust, with its accompanying evils. But far worse is the carelessness of some who do not promptly answer letters, or who refuse to honor drafts after proper notification.

When careful wholesale houses, selling at close prices, are thus treated they are apt to warn their travellers not to call upon such delinquent retailers, thus compelling them to lose the benefit of keeping in touch with the latest books, etc., and to buy from firms who, working on long profits, can afford to waste their time on unbusinesslike men.

In all cases it will be well for the small retailer to bear in mind certain points and to act upon them to the best of his ability. The excuse of lack of time to attend to these matters will prove about as invalid as "ignorance of the law," which, as every one knows, will not exempt the transgressor from the penalties imposed by the law.

In the first place, then, if the retailer have any claims for "shorts" or "damages" let such be reported immediately after the goods are checked. In the second place, when a monthly statement is received and errors are discovered while the bills are checked off on the statement, let the errors, if any, be reported by the next mail. In the third place, if it is impossible to make a remittance when requested, let the retailer write at once when he reasonably expects to be able to make a remittance. In the fourth place, when notified that after a certain time the tardy retailer will be drawn upon, let him attend to the matter without a moment's delay. Let him verify whether the amount and terms are correct, and that his bank account will allow him to accept the drafts. If not, let him write at once just exactly how the matter stands, and let him endeavor at whatever sacrifice never to refuse a draft. If a draft cannot be met at maturity, it will be wise to write or telegraph in time to save protest costs, and annoyance to the house issuing the draft.

A little attention will save much friction, and help immensely in keeping up the reputation of the retailer. Every man in business is conscious of the fact that it may not always be possible to meet obligations promptly, and for that reason he is not as a rule unreasonable. But every business man has a right to expect prompt attention to correspondence, and a reasonable explanation from his debtors as to the state of affairs when accounts are overdue.

It is clearly impossible in summarizing the output of the books of the year, as is annually done in our Annual Summary Number, to enumerate all the books that meet with a favorable reception, and the line must often be arbitrarily drawn. Yet we regret we should have drawn the line so as to exclude Louis Tracy's excellent story, "The Pillar of Light," that has been deemed worthy of serial reproduction in one of the leading New York dailies.

AN AUTHOR'S RIGHT TO HIS WORK.

JUDGE McCALL, of the Supreme Court Special Term, Part vi., on the second inst., handed down a decision in the suit brought by Basil Jones against the American Law Book Company, to restrain the defendants from publishing an article entitled "Army and Navy," in the second volume of their "Cyclopaedia of Law and Procedure," except under the plaintiff's name. It appears that the American Law Book Company, of New York City, in order to attract attention to its cyclopedia, caused articles written by young law writers to be nominally "edited" by famous judges and jurists, and then published such articles without giving credit to the real author, but under the name of the distinguished gentleman who looked over the proofs.

Judge McCall in effect holds that both usage and inherent right give an author the right to have his literary production published under no name other than his own. The court's opinion is as follows: "This is an action on the equity side of the court in which the relief sought is an injunction against the defendant, restraining it from publishing an article entitled 'Army and Navy,' found in vol. II. of defendant's publication entitled 'Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure,' except under the plaintiff's name. The said article, it is claimed, was prepared and written by the plaintiff while under contract with the defendant to do work of this precise nature, and the grounds upon which the plaintiff asserts he is entitled to the relief prayed for are: First. That a custom or usage in the publication of law encyclopedias was a part of the contract entered into as between the parties herein, and as such gave plaintiff a contractual right to have his article published under his name. Second. That irrespective of any custom or usage the right of an author to the public credit of his work and to the publication of his name in connection therewith is inherent and resides in him until waived or surrendered. It may be accepted that the right to literary property is as sacred as that of any other species of property, and as has been forcibly said: 'The right of authors in respect to their unpublished works have been so frequently and elaborately considered and carefully adjudicated by the courts of this country and England and are now so well understood that in considering first publications there can be no doubt. The author of a literary work or composition has by law a right to the first publication of it. He has a right to determine whether it shall be published or not, and if published, when, where, by whom and in what form.' These rights were vouchsafed to authors at common law and statute has in nowise impaired them. What is true as general propositions is not at all altered by the fact that the creation of a man's genius or mind may have developed while he was in the general employ of another. 'For a man's intellectual productions are peculiarly his own, and he will not be deemed to have parted with his right and transferred it to his employer unless a valid agreement to that effect is adduced.' (Boucicault vs. Fox, 5 Blatchford, U. S., p. 95.) There is nothing in the contract before the court out of which can be spelled any such waiver. It is true that he stipulated that whatever he produced should be submitted to a process of editing, but it would be a wide stretch of the imagination that would work out of that proposition a sale or waiver of his rights to ownership to or credit for the results of his labor. The case is replete with evidence of a custom developed almost into usage of the right of this particular class of writers to have their productions published under their names. This defendant's published volumes teem with such instances, and this particular author, plaintiff herein, has his first article published under his name. That he wrote a letter of thanks to the representative of the publisher for so doing is rather a proof of his understanding of properties, and it would be absurd to treat it as an expression of any views that he was treated in any other manner than he had a perfect right to expect. Some proof has been offered that this particular article is not solely the work of the plaintiff. That may or may not be true, but to protect a person under such circumstances the law does not require that it should be his exclusive work. The work may be the result of the labors of one or many acting in co-operation. Whatever may be the case the right is substantially the same and equally entitled to protection of the court, (Trench vs. Maguire, vol. LV. How Pr., p. 479.) Upon all the facts I believe the plaintiff has made a complete case and is entitled to the relief he prays for. Decree and findings to be submitted accordingly."

HIGH PRICES FOR RARE BOOKS.

THE record price of $317 was paid at Libbie's on the 15th inst. for a copy of the first edition of Fitzgerald's translation of the "Rubaiyat," that turned up in the Knapp collection. The highest price hitherto paid for the book was £63. As late as 1900 a copy with manuscript corrections by the author brought only £35 at Sotheby's. Since then the price of this little book which started its career in Quaritch's penny bargain bin, has been steadily going up. The copy sold at Libbie's was bought by F. W. Morris of New York City, who was also the purchaser of Hawthorne's scarce first book, "Fanshawe," which he secured for $621, the third highest price ever paid for the book at an auction sale.

The second folio Shakespeare, with several leaves in facsimile was sold for $429; the fourth folio, with the verses beneath the portrait in facsimile, fetched $325.

At Anderson's, on the evening of February 21, during the sale of the eighth part of the McKee collection, Edgar Allan Poe's original manuscript of his imaginative poem, "Ulalume," was sold for $1000. The poem contained ten stanzas, 104 lines, but the last stanza was never printed. A letter which Poe wrote to Miss Susan Ingram about the poem sold for $160, going to the same anonymous purchaser who secured the poem.

The highest price obtained for any of the rare portraits was $200, which was paid for a mezzotint engraving of Henry Laurens, engraved by Valentine Green after Cooley and printed in London in 1782. A mezzotint portrait of Paul Jones, printed in London in 1779, went for $191.

A splendid collection of old New York prints was sold, and they went for good prices.

The highest price that has been paid in an auction room for a George Washington letter in a long time was obtained at the Merwin-Clayton salesrooms, on the afternoon of February 21, for a war letter of George Washington, written to Elias Boudinot in April, 1777. It sold for $160.

COPYRIGHT PACT WITH JAPAN.

ACCORDING to an announcement made on the 17th inst., the Japanese government has entered into a copyright agreement with the United States with the view of preventing further literary piracy.

AUTHORS POPULAR IN SWITZERLAND.

ACCORDING to the eighth annual report of the librarian of the Pestalozzi Society at Zurich, showing a circulation during 1904 of 83,000 volumes, the works of the following authors were most in demand in the order mentioned: Spyri, Gerstäcker, Verne, Heimburg, Ganghofer, Freytag, Rosegger, Ohnet, Ebers, Marlitt, Auerbach, Dumas, Stein, Werner, Spielhagen, G. Keller, May, K. F. Meyer, J. Fenimore Cooper, Hackländer, Joachim, Ebner-Eschenbach, Gottsche, Marryat, Mark Twain, Fontane, Bonnet, Georgy, Fr. Hoffmann, Sienkiewicz, Daudet, Sir Walter Scott, Victor Hugo, George Sand, Gréville, Lewald, Dahn, Zschokke, Malot and Hanff.

THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS TO OCCUPY ST. DUNSTAN'S HOUSE.

It is now definitely announced that the business of the Cambridge University Press, at present carried on at the warehouse in Ave Maria Lane, Ludgate Hill, London, will be shortly transferred to Fetter Lane, Fleet Street, to St. Dunstan's House, at present in the occupation of Sampson Low, Marston & Co., which has been purchased by the University.

The publishing business of Sampson Low, Marston & Co., Ltd., will be removed to more central premises in Paternoster Row; the Export Department, which was taken over by William Dawson & Sons, Ltd. (and of which E. Marston is chairman), some time past, will continue to be carried on at St. Dunstan's House.

St. Dunstan's House is situated on the west side of Fetter Lane, immediately to the south of the garden of the Record Office; it was erected about twenty years ago with a view to the requirements of the business of publishing, and is in every way well suited for the business of the Press, providing ample room for present requirements and for future extension. It will be now possible to have show-rooms where the publications of the Press, Bibles, and Prayer-Books, educational and miscellaneous works, can be inspected.

It is only in comparatively recent years that the Cambridge University Press has had its own London warehouse. Cambridge publications, which, forty years ago, consisted mainly of Bibles and Prayer-Books, were sold through agents in London. The agency with Messrs. Rivington was terminated at the end of 1872, and it was then decided, on the advice of C. J. Clay, that the Syndics of the Press should not appoint other agents but should conduct their London business in an office of their own; accordingly a lease was taken of premises at 17 Paternoster Row, and the London business was carried on there from the beginning of 1873. The accommodation afforded by this warehouse was found insufficient, and in 1883 the premises in Ave Maria Lane were taken. Since that date the business of the Press has so greatly increased as to make a removal to a larger warehouse highly desirable.

A PARCELS POST TREATY WITH ENGLAND.

AFTER many years of negotiation, a parcels post treaty has just been concluded between the United States and Great Britain. By this treaty parcels not to exceed 4 pounds and 6 ounces in weight, and not to exceed $50 in value, may hereafter be sent at the rate of 12 cents a pound, instead of 10 cents an ounce, as formerly. All kinds of merchandise and articles usually placed in the mails may, with specified exceptions, be put in the parcels carried under the treaty. Live animals, except bees in properly constructed boxes; dead animals, except insects and reptiles when thoroughly dry; fruits and vegetables which easily decompose, poisonous and inflammable and combustible materials are among the articles barred.

Parcels post arrangements are rapidly being extended by the United States. A treaty has been negotiated with France and will soon be promulgated. There now exist parcels post treaties between the United States and Germany, Belgium, Norway, China, Newfoundland and Japan and several other countries.

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS IN CONVENTION.

THE American Newspaper Publishers' Association held its nineteenth annual meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria, from February 21 to 23. Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe presided, and Louis Hannech of the Newark Sunday Call acted as secretary.

A special paper was read on the subject of "The Allowance of Commission Direct to the Advertiser," by S. S. Rogers of the Chicago Daily News, a resolution regretting the death of William Cullen Bryant, the secretary and manager of the New York office of the Association, was adopted, and thirty-seven topics were discussed behind 'closed doors. Among the topics discussed were the following:

"Serial Stories. Have they a place in daily newspapers, and has practice demonstrated it? How should they be run, and what effect has the publication in book form before publication serially?"

"Soup Plates, Pickle Forks, and Bibles as a Means of Increasing Circulation. What experience have members had in 1904 with premiums?"

"Copyrighting News. Will the A. N. P. A. devise a plan to protect the newspaper which spends time and money in securing the first news, against the paper which steals it and uses it on the day of publication and in the territory of the newspaper which collected it?"

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM H. BRADDON, a member of the editorial staffs of The Iron Age and The Metal Worker, died at his home at Queens, Long Island, of heart disease.

DR. FRANK COWAN, physician, lawyer, journalist, traveller, lecturer and author, and proprietor of Frank Cowan's Paper, died at his home at Greensburg, Pa., on Sunday, February 12. He published several volumes of verse, a book about insects and a Dictionary of Proverbial Phrases Relating to the Sea. He was born in Greensburg in 1844.

RT. REV. WILLIAM E. McLAREN, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Chicago, died at his home at 93 Madison Avenue, Chicago, on Sunday, February 19, of heart trouble. Bishop McLaren was born at Geneva, N. Y., December 13, 1831. His father was a Presbyterian minister, for some years president of the University of Western Pennsylvania, where the Bishop received his early education. He was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1860 and for many years did missionary work in South America. In 1871 he entered the Protestant Episcopal Church and in 1875 was consecrated Bishop of Illinois. Bishop McLaren was a very earnest worker of very pronounced views and has had great influence among his clergy. He was the author of "Catholic Dogma: an antidote to doubt;" "Inner Proofs of God," "The Practice of the Interior Life," "The Essence of Prayer," and many other writings of "high church" tendency.

ADOLF STREBER, member of the firm of Herder & Co., at Freiburg, in Breisgau, Baden, died in that city on January 23. Streber was born in Munich, January 1, 1850. After passing through college, he became apprentice in the bookselling establishment of his brother-in-law, Benjamin Herder, at Freiburg. At the conclusion of his apprenticeship he took a position in Spithöver's bookstore in Rome. Returning to Germany in 1870 he went to the front as volunteer in a Bavarian infantry regiment. He was wounded several times and was promoted for bravery in the field. In 1873 he established a retail branch of the Herder business in Munich, to which he devoted himself until the death of his mother, in 1892, when he returned to Freiburg and became a member of the Herdersche Verlagshandlung. On the occasion of the centennial of his firm Pope Leo XIII. conferred upon Streber the order of Gregorius. Streber was a man of charming personality, earnest and indefatigable in raising the standard of his profession to an ever higher level, inspired himself, and inspiring others with the highest ideals of religion, art and science.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

JACK LONDON has completed his new book, "The War of the Classes," a series of essays on social subjects written from his own personal experiences and observations a dozen years ago.

THE first statue of a woman to have a place in Statuary Hall at Washington is that of Frances E. Willard, of Illinois, renowned throughout the world for her great work in behalf of purity of life. It was unveiled on February 17 with impressive exercises in the Senate and the House.

MRS. H. M. LOTHROP, (Margaret Sidney,) is engaged in completing the tenth of the famous Pepper books, "Ben Pepper," which the Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company have in press for publication upon their Lothrop list during the present season. The popular demand for these remarkable books is continually increasing, the sales during the past season surpassing all previous records.

A MEMORIAL to the poet, Edward Rowland Sill has recently been unveiled at Oakland, Cal. It is in the form of a bronze sun-dial, mounted on a granite base, and is the gift of three classes of the Oakland High School, where Sill was a teacher for a short time. The publishers of Sill's works, Houghton, Mifflin & Co., have for some time past held out promises of a complete edition of his poems in a single convenient volume. It is to be hoped on all accounts that such an edition may be given us.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE Princeton University Library has recently published "A List of Arabic Manuscripts in Princeton University Library," by Professor Enno Littmann. The title is somewhat misleading, as the list covers only those Arabic manuscripts contained in the second Oriental collection presented to the library by Robert Garrett, of Baltimore in 1904. The first Garrett collection, presented in 1900, had been catalogued by Professor Houstma in Leyden, Holland, before its purchase for the Princeton library. The present catalogue covers 355 titles, and the two together 1549 manuscripts. A description of these collections will be found in The Library Journal of May, 1904. Professor Littmann is now engaged upon a more complete and careful descriptive catalogue of the two as one collection.

BROCKHAUS'S Allgemeine Bibliographie has entered upon its fiftieth year. This excellent international bibliography was founded in 1856 and was compiled by Paul Trömel, the editorial work being done by Heinrich Brockhaus, and continued by the latter until August, 1857. Beginning with the issue for September, 1857, Dr. Eduard Brockhaus became editor, and took charge of the classification from 1863 to 1880, assisted by Hermann Ziegenhalg. In 1881, Otto Kistner became editor and continued until September, 1903, when Paul Schumann, succeeded to the editorship of the publication. The January issue contains a classified list of upwards of 400 new works. An edition of the Allgemeine Bibliographie intended for export gives, in addition to the German price, the original prices of the countries in which the books are published.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

JOHN W. LUCE & Co., Boston, announce George Bernard Shaw's essay "On Going to Church." Mr. Shaw's popularity on our side the water grows steadily.

F. M. BUCKLES & Co. have just issued "The Crimson Cryptogram," a detective story by Fergus Hume, full of adventure and surprises and details of police duties.

THE recently discovered copy of the first quarto edition of Shakespeare's "Titus Andronicus" has been purchased by a London firm for $10,000. It is supposed that the book will come to America.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY will issue shortly "The Boys of Bob's Hill," by Charles Pierce Burton, telling of lively adventures in a forest fire; and a fifth edition of Burton E. Stevenson's "Marathon Mystery."

LEMCKE & BUECHNER, 11 East 17th Street, New York City, have imported "Etudes Critiques Sur la Vie de Christophe Colomb Avant Ses Découvertes," ("Critical Studies on the Life of Columbus Before His Discoveries,") by Henry Vignaud, which has appeared in Paris from the press of H. Welter.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just issued "Lady Penelope," by Morley Roberts, a clever novel of English life; and "The Black Barque," by Captain T. Jenkins Hains, a story of slavery and piracy in 1815, when the navy of the United States had proved its value and efficiency in every sea-way and seaport in the world.

FRED J. HEER, Columbus, O., is bringing out "Shakerism: its Meaning and Message," by Anna White and Leila S. Taylor, covering its subject from its inception to the present time, and including biographical notices of some of the most prominent advocates. Special mention is made of the extensive literature of the Shakers.

JAMES POTT & Co. will publish March 18 "Dolly Winter," the letters of a friend which Joseph Harold is permitted to publish—letters not fiction, but an exceedingly rare correspondence between real people; and "Two of the Guests," by Kate Gertrude Prindeville, the story of a week's end party and romantic situations resulting.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will supply the American market with the report of "The English Church Congress of 1904," held at Liverpool. Among the topics of immediate importance discussed are Decline in Church Attendance, Intemperance, Problems of Poverty, Supply of Candidates for the Ministry; Ethics of Commerce, and Church Unity.

LAIRD & LEE have just issued "Hermann the Great," by H. J. Burlingame, describing the famous magician's most wonderful tricks, and giving some curious revelations concerning celebrated stage tricks that have puzzled the whole world; and "The Alderman's Wife; or, Making Hay While the Sun Shines," by Hon. Henry E. Scott, a story of love and intrigue in a large city.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY report that "The Lure of the Labrador Wild," by Dillon Wallace, sold out its entire first edition before the book appeared, and that another edition is printing; as is also a fourth edition of Dr. Sidney L. Gulick's "Evolution of the Japanese;" a third edition of Norman Duncan's "Doctor Luke," and the 90th thousand of Ralph Connor's "The Prospector."

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY will publish in about three weeks an important book by John Bancroft Devins, entitled "An Observer in the Philippines." This will be a volume of about 400 pages of intensely interesting matter, based upon personal observation and treating of political, educational and spiritual positions in the new American possessions. Secretary Taft contributes the foreword. The book will contain 64 illustrations.

THE MERWIN-CLAYTON SALES COMPANY will this year resume the Annual Parcel Sales of books, so long a feature of the business of Bangs & Co. and their predecessors. The first sale will be held during the last week in March, beginning on Tuesday, March 28. Invoices, with full descriptions, ready for the printer, should reach the Merwin-Clayton Sales Company by March 5 at latest. The co-operation of publishers is solicited.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish March 2 "The Lion's Skin," by John S. Wise, a Reconstruction story dealing sympathetically with the negro problem and of almost auto-biographic interest, for the author passed through the stirring events he pictures; and "Tommy Carteret," by Justus Miles Forman, a story of vision which lays hold upon the imagination of a man engaged to a beautiful girl and leads to startling incidents.

THE CAMBRIDGE SOCIETY, 135 Fifth Avenue, New York City, has published the Cambridge edition de luxe of Disraeli's Endymion in a form that will please the true book lover. The attention lately called to Disraeli by the great literary papers in view of the publication of a fragmentary manuscript should make a younger generation become acquainted with the books that were a revelation when first issued. The Cambridge Society has the complete works of Disraeli.

FRANKLIN PRINTING AND ENGRAVING Co., Toledo, O., have just ready "Rambles Abroad," by Olive A. Colton, giving descriptions and illustrations of well-known European cities towards which the sightseeing travel tends: Rome, Naples, Milan, Vienna, Munich, Paris, Weimer, etc. A slight glimpse of Windsor Castle is the only British resort that is shown. There is also a book of information on the eyes by A. F. Emmet, entitled "Strong and Beautiful Eyes."

ATKINSON, MENTZER & GROVER, Chicago, have just ready "Suggestions in Hand Work," by Wilhelmina Seegmiller, which deals especially with paper weaving, tile matting and educational art text sheets. The little book is profusely illustrated. They also issue "A Chemistry Manual and Loose-Leaf Note Book," by John Whitmore, instructor in chemistry, Stamford, (Conn.) High School. The manual includes experiments generally performed by first-year pupils in chemistry.

THE SHAKESPEARE PRESS, Westfield, New Jersey, announces that about May 1 it can furnish to subscribers to the twenty-volume edition of The Bankside Shakespeare volume xxi., which is devoted to "Love's Labour Lost," with an introduction by Isaac Hull Platt, touching the question whether the play was originally written or only "newly augmented" by Shakespeare. This volume, like the preceding ones of the edition, is under the general editorship of Dr. Appleton Morgan.

HON. W. P. BROWNLOW, manager of the National Soldiers' Home at Johnson City, Tenn., has issued an appeal for gifts of books for the library of the institution. The library building, recently completed but unsupplied with books, was erected from a gift of $25,000 from Andrew Carnegie, one of the few donations of the kind made unconditionally. The home opened for the admission of members about a year ago, and now contains about 1000 inmates. Franking slips for gifts of books will be supplied on application.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have nearly ready "The Orchid," by Robert Grant, a novelette of manners, in which "the orchid" is Miss Lydia Arnold, afterwards Mrs. Maxwell, still later Mrs. Spencer, who blooms in the smartest of sets of American society; "At Close Range," a collection of nine short stories by F. Hopkinson Smith; and "Twelve Stories and a Dream," also collected short stories by H. G. Wells. Toward the end of March Quiller-Couch will have a new story dealing with heredity under the attractive title "Shining Ferry."

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co., Philadelphia, will publish a new book by the Rev. Arthur Chambers, entitled "Thoughts of the Spiritual." Mr. Chambers has given long and careful study to the subject of the future life, and to the passages in the Bible bearing thereon. The immense sales of his two previous volumes, "Our Life After Death" and "Man and the Spiritual World," and their numerous translations attest the marked and ever-growing interest in this vital theme, an interest which apparently stops with no people and in no country.

THE A. L. BURT COMPANY will publish at once three of William Harrison Ainsworth's historical novels: "Windsor Castle," "Guy Fawkes," and "The Tower of London." These popular romances are well illustrated and published in attractive cloth bindings. This company also will publish at once the celebrated frontier story, "Nick of the Woods," by Robert Montgomery Bird. Also two excellent Revolutionary stories by Chauncy C. Hotchkiss, viz.: "In Defiance of the King," and "A Colonial Free Lance." These books will be issued in attractive form and sold at popular prices.

JOHN JOSEPH McVEY, Philadelphia, has just ready a second edition, rewritten and enlarged, of "Answers to Questions Prescribed by Dental State Boards," by Robert B. Ludy, late Acting Assistant Surgeon, U. S. A. All the new State Board Questions which have appeared since the publication of the first edition have been added. Well-known specialists have lent their assistance in securing a critical interpretation of the questions and on forming concise yet complete answers to the same. There is also just ready the second edition of W. E. Rotzell's "Man: An Introduction to Anthropology."

THE BURROWS BROTHERS have just brought out a reprint of Nehemiah How's narrative of his captivity in 1745-1747, from the original edition, with introduction and notes by Victor Hugo Paltsits. The original very rare tract was printed at Boston, in 1748, after the death of the author, in prison, at Quebec, Canada, on May 25, 1747. He was taken captive at Great Meadow, (now Putney, Windham County, Vermont,) on October 11, 1745. The editor gives in his introduction a new historical account of the beginnings of Indian incursions in the Connecticut Valley, during King George's War, and presents, also, a bibliographical account of the original pamphlet, and a genealogy of the How family. An analytical index of about twenty-four columns concludes the volume.

THE ROBERT APPLETON COMPANY, with offices at 1 Union Square, New York, has been incorporated at Albany to publish a Roman Catholic encyclopædia. The directors of the company are Robert Appleton, Edward Eyre, Hugh Kelly and Professor Charles G. Herbermann. The encyclopædia, which has the sanction of Archbishop Farley, will be prepared by leading Catholic scholars, under the editorship of Professor Charles G. Herbermann of the College of the City of New York, with whom will be associated Professor Edward A. Pace and Professor T. J. Shahan of the Catholic University at Washington; the Rev. John T. Wynne and Condé Pallen. The object of the Catholic encyclopædia will be to give full information upon all Catholic subjects from an authoritative point of view so far as the Church is concerned.

BAKER & TAYLOR Co. have in preparation "The Disgressions of Polly," by Helen Rowland, a humorous, lovable book that might be called a lexicon for lovers; and a ninth edition of "My Mamie Rose," the story of Owen Kildare's life which has gripped every one that has read it. Of serious nature will be "The Unfolding of the Ages in the Revelation of St. John," by Ford C. Ottman; "The Evolution of Knowledge," by Raymond St. James Perrin, in which the various philosophical systems are boiled down in a fair and scholarly manner, and into which the author has put fifteen years of research and hard thinking; and a greatly enlarged and revised edition of "Social Progress," edited by Josiah Strong. A revolutionary look on physical culture by Dr. Austin Flint, with introduction by his father, will bear the title "Power and Health Through Progressive Exercise."

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY will publish early in March a work on "The Religious Conditions in Modern Japan," by Professor Ernest W. Clement, author of a work on "Christianity in Modern Japan;" "The South Wind, and Other Sermons," by the late Dr. T. Harwood Pattison; also, "The Young People's Imitation of Christ," prepared by Edward S. Ellis, who has to a considerable extent modernized the language of the original and eliminated the ascetic and sacerdotal elements. They will bring out in May a story by Hope Daring, entitled "The Appointed Way," in which the author gives a graphic description of the characteristic influence and working of the Seventh Day Advent Church. In April may be expected the Rev. M. T. Lamb's new book, "God and the Child," a discussion of the proper treatment to be accorded to homeless children, a subject upon which the author is particularly qualified to speak, having charge of such work in the State of New Jersey.

THE LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD COMPANY announce for publication April 1 on their Lothrop list two widely different works of fiction, each of commanding interest. "Miss Billy" is an entertaining novel of civic improvement by Edith K. Stokely and Marian K. Hurd, two bright women journalists of Des Moines, Ia. It has to do with the formation of a street almost as unpromising as the celebrated "cabbage patch," and equally rich in humorous characters. The other is "The Human Torch," a tale of the great Southwest by Edith M. Nicholl, a book having much of the quality of "The Virginian." The story is one of affinity and of the "human touch" that draws man and woman together wherever it appears in its might, regardless of any obstacles. It is full of good red blood and life, enlivened with humor. They will also publish April 1 on their Lee & Shepard list a juvenile by Edward Stratemeyer that cannot fail to be a leader in its class, "At the Fall of Port Arthur." Mr. Stratemeyer is so widely known as being keenly up to date in his books that his large audience has been already expecting this book.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY publish to-day "The Opal," a short novel by an anonymous author, giving intimate and amusing pictures of Boston society; "Out of Bondage and Other Stories," by the late Rowland E. Robinson, all full of this author's keen observation and warm sympathy for men and animals; "Our Navy and the Barbary Corsairs," by Gardner W. Allen, who gives a vivid picture of the relations between the United States and the Barbary powers a century ago; "The Hawthorne Centenary," a full account of the anniversary proceedings at "The Wayside," Concord, Mass., July 4-7, 1904. On the same day will be ready the fifth edition of Oscar Fay Adams's "A Dictionary of American Authors," and The Riverside Press edition of Wicksteed's translation of Boccaccio's "Life of Dante," postponed from November 30, 1904. "Indiana," by J. P. Dunn, will have a new edition in the American Commonwealth Series; and Book 1 will be ready of Spenser's "Faerie Queene" with editorial equipment by Martha Hale-Shackford, which takes its place in the Riverside Literature Series.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY promise the first volume of Professor Edward Channing's important eight volume "History of the United States," lives of Sidney Smith, Bryant and Prescott in the English Men of Letters Series; and Volumes III. and IV. of Herbert Paul's "History of Modern England." General Henry L. Abbott has an important book on the "Problems of the Panama Canal;" and Henry G. Hanchett has written a volume telling people how to enjoy "The Art of the Musician." The first volume of an edition of "The Life and Writings of Benjamin Franklin" will contain a very large number of newly discovered letters and documents. Other titles will include a translation of Meili's "International and Civil Law;" "Labor Problems," by Professor Thomas S. Adams and Miss Helen Sumner; "Jesus Christ and the Christian Character," by Professor Peabody, of Harvard; Dr. Austin Flint's "Handbook of Physiology;" "The Bahama Islands," by twenty-five scientists composing the expedition sent out in 1903 under the auspices of the Geographical Society of Baltimore; A. Emerson Palmer's "History of the New York Public School" and Professor William P. Trent's volume on the "Southern Writers."

D. C. HEATH & CO. have begun the publication of The Belles Lettres Series of "Literature for Literature's Sake," which will present the most significant works in English literature from its beginning to the present time. The volumes are edited primarily as literature and for students and lovers of literature. The series is divided into sections, each in charge of a general editor noted for literary skill and interpretative insight and for his knowledge in the special department under his care: Section 1, English literature, Prof. E. M. Brown, University of Chicago; Section 2, Middle English literature, Prof. Ewald Flügel, Leland Stanford, Jr., University; Section 3, The English drama, Prof. G. P. Baker, Harvard University; Section 4, Literary criticism and literary theory, Prof. C. H. Herford, University of Manchester, England; Section 5, Seventeenth and eighteenth century poets, editor not yet announced; Section 6, Nineteenth century poets, Prof. Richard Burton, recently of University of Minnesota; and Section 7, The English novel, Prof. W. L. Cross, of Yale University. The editors of the separate volumes are among the foremost scholars in this country and Europe. The texts are, as far as possible, the latest edition known to have come under the eye of the author, or else the first edition. They are unexpurgated. The biography, bibliography, notes and glossary serve the general purpose of the series. About thirteen volumes are now ready and it is expected the series will run to 200 volumes.

The Burlington Magazine for February, just brought out here by Robert Grier Cooke, contains an editorial discussion of the "Prospects of Contemporary Painting," refuting the pessimistic view of these who contend that there is no market for modern pictures. In addition to these and editorials on the Strand improvements, the insurance of works of art and on the National Gallery, there are the following papers: [G. F.] "Watts at Burlington House," by Charles Ricketts, who characterizes the great technician as "the great event in England since Turner," and the "most dignified painter since Reynolds;" Part 6 of the "Notes on Pictures in the Royal Collections," in which Lionel Cust considers the examples of Lucas Cranach in the collection, the text being illustrated with two plates and a frontispiece showing Cranach's Adam and Eve, a work worthy of special note; the fourth and concluding part of Julia Cartwright's description of the drawings of Jean-François Millet in the Forbes collection, illustrated with four plates, showing some characteristic portraits; the fifth and concluding part of R. L. Hobson's authoritative article on "Early Staffordshire Wares," being taken up mainly with the Whieldon period, with four plates; the concluding part of Mr. Jourdain's description of the Arthur Black-borne lace collection, with four plates showing some remarkable specimen of Milanese lace; an ingenious description, by Campbell Dodgson, of a woodcut by Schäuflein, entitled "Alexander's Journey to the Sky," which is now reproduced for the first time; also, another instalment of R. S. Clouston's article on "English Furniture Makers," with two plates showing examples of work by members of the Society of Upholsterers and Cabinet Makers. Besides these there are minor notes, a bibliography and correspondence, the whole making a very attractive as well as useful publication.

PICK-UPS.

O. HENRY, author of "Cabbages and Kings," tells a whimsical story of witnessing in the office of a big magazine the return of some manuscript to a dejected looking young man. "I am sorry for that fellow," said the editor. "He came to New York from New Orleans a year ago, and regularly brings some stories to our office which we can never use. He doesn't make a dollar by his pen and is getting shabby and pale." A short time afterward Mr. Henry saw the same writer in the same office and heard the editor urging him to return to New Orleans. "Why," said the young man, "some day I may write a story you may want." "But you can do that just as well in New Orleans," said the editor, "and save board bills." "Board bills! What do I care about board bills. I have an income of $20,000 a year from my father's estate."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

To The Trade:-

The extraordinary sensation created by the publication of a fragmentary Manuscript of DISRAELI, "Earl of Beaconsfield," by the great papers of England and America has undoubtedly attracted your attention. Over $100,000 has been expended in advertising in the past few weeks.

The Cambridge Society are fortunate in having completed the only Definitive Edition of the Author-Statesman.

We beg to advise that we have published the Cambridge Edition de Luxe of
THE LAST AND GREATEST MASTERPIECE OF DISRAELI

"ENDYMION"

(for which he received $50,000) in a form and splendor that will be a revelation to the Book Lover. Each copy will contain A HAND-PAINTED FRONTISPICE (on drawing paper, signed by the Artist) and five other illustrations in photogravure on vellum.

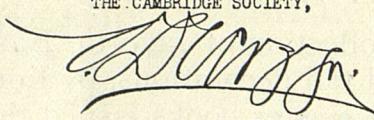

The Binding design is an artistic triumph done in gold and three colors, thus presenting the Great Victorian Classic in a "Setting worthy of the Jewel."

THE RETAIL PRICE $1.50.

We have contracted for the largest amount of advertising ever given to a novel. We are confident of an enormous sale. We have provided for 100,000 for the first thirty days. We advise you to place your order now, by mail or telegraph.

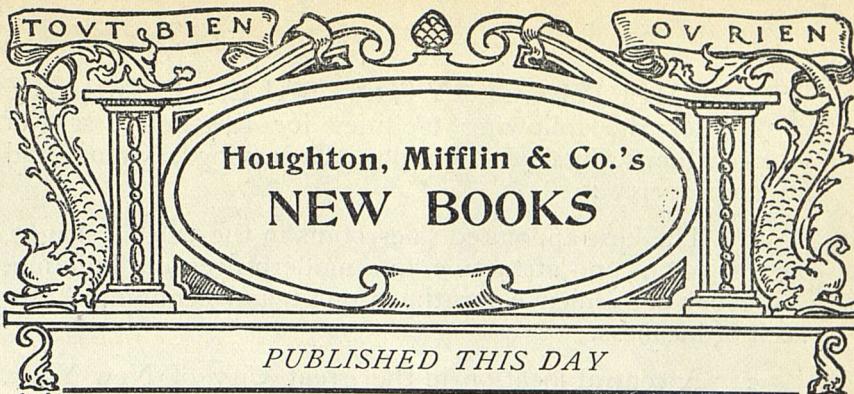

Yours very truly,

THE CAMBRIDGE SOCIETY,

Vice-President.

OUT OF BONDAGE

By Rowland E. Robinson

More stories of the Green Mountain country written with the love of sport, keen observation, and sympathy characteristic of the author of "Uncle 'Lisha's Outing," and "Danvis Folks." 16mo, $1.25.

OUR NAVY AND THE BARBARY CORSAIRS

By Gardner W. Allen

A complete account of the interesting, romantic, but neglected episodes in American history, namely our relations with the Barbary States—the war with Tripoli in 1801, and with Algiers in 1815. Illustrated. Crown 8vo, $1.50, net. Postage, 12 cents.

THE HAWTHORNE CENTENARY

A full account of the anniversary exercises at the Wayside, Concord, Mass., July 4-7, 1904. The volume is edited by Thomas Wentworth Higginson. With illustrations from photographs. 12mo, $1.25, net. Postage, 10 cents.

INDIANA (American Commonwealths Series)

Putnam's New Books

De Profundis

By OSCAR WILDE. With portrait after etching by J. E. KELLY.
12mo, net $1.25. (By mail, $1.35.)

Written while its unfortunate author was a prisoner in Reading Gaol, De Profundis contains what is probably the most sincere and personal expression of his peculiarly artificial and sensitive nature. He records his bitterness towards society on his downfall, his abject grief during the first months of prison discipline, and then the gradual growth of a repentant spirit and courageous resolve to go out in the world and complete his artistic career.

As a human document De Profundis possesses unique value and interest, and the beauty of its style entitles it to a high place in the literature of the time.

The Kaiser as He Is

Or, The Real Wilhelm II. By HENRI DE NOUSSANNE.
Translated by WALTER LITTLEFIELD.

12mo, net $1.25. (By mail, $1.35.)

A witty, keen, and incisive arraignment of Emperor William II. of Germany. M. de Noussanne has the French capacity for picturesque presentation, and his book is a brilliant commentary on a brilliant man.

The Girl of La Gloria

By CLARA DRISCOLL.

Illustrated in color by H. DITZLER. 12mo, $1.50.

A charming love-story of Texas. There are fascinating descriptions of the rough, romantic life of the plains when men were quick with their love and quicker with their hate. The story moves rapidly with strong, thrilling scenes, and the reader's interest is held to the dramatic close.

Ready March 8

A Self-Made Man's Wife

Her Letters to Her Son. Being the Woman's View of Certain Famous Correspondence. By CHARLES EUSTACE MERRIMAN. Author of "Letters from a Son to His Self-Made Father."

Illustrated by F. T. RICHARDS. 12mo, $1.50.

This book introduces another member of the well-known Graham family of Chicago. The self-made man's wife turns out to have been an amusing, lovable old lady with a very neat wit and a substantial fund of old-fashioned common sense. Her letters to her son show how she brought him up in the way he should go, and one also gathers that she had a good deal to do with the bringing-up of the old self-made merchant himself.

Belchamber

By HOWARD OVERING STURGIS. Author of "All That Was Possible," etc. 12mo, $1.50.

A truthful and particularly engaging novel of very fashionable English society. The people of the book are real personalities, and, in striking contrast to the mere action and incident of the present-day fiction, they change and develop among the influences and circumstances which surround them. Here is "Sainty," the frail and shy boy who becomes Marquis of Belchamber; his stern Scotch mother; Lord Arthur, the handsome, lovable, spendthrift younger brother; and all the others, gay and sad, worldly, selfish, weak, scheming for their own ends, who together make a veritable new "Vanity Fair."

Back to Life!

It has generally been believed that Sherlock Holmes was dead. But that was all a mistake. His last encounter with Prof. Moriarty in the Alpine Pass was not fatal. The truth is told for the first time in "The Adventure of the Empty House," one of the thirteen mysterious stories contained in A. Conan Doyle's new book,

THE RETURN OF SHERLOCK HOLMES

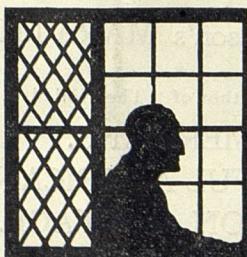

These last stories, so thrilling and exciting, are by far the best that Dr. Doyle has ever written, and now is the chance for every one to secure them in book form. In giving these last adventures of the great detective to the public Dr. Doyle announces it will be
